Campaign 2000 Targets Future of IFYE

IFYE FOUNDATION LAUNCHES FUNDRAISING DRIVE TO PROVIDE AND EXPAND AN AFFORDABLE IFYE EXPERIENCE

Campaign 2000, in support of 2002 and future IFYE exchanges, is underway. The IFYE Foundation and the IFYE Association encourage your participation!

4-H International exchange alumni and friends, through the 50th Anniversary Campaign, made it possible to expand programs from 42 delegates in 1997 to 52 participants in 2000, consisting of 21 IFYE Ambassador and 31 IFYE Representative delegates. They have been hosted in 29 countries. In 2000, this support provided $20,000 toward lowering the average participant cost of the program and $15,000 in scholarships for 14 individuals who would otherwise not have been able to participate.

Past exchange participants know what the experience can mean. It has enriched their lives with new relationships and perspectives. It influences careers. It puts a new focus on their mission in life. And friends of 4-H International have seen the impact as they relate to the program—as host families, Extension staff, or as individuals who just believe in the value of 4-H International exchange and educational programs.

Campaign 2000 provides an opportunity for IFYE and other 4-H International alumni to express appreciation for their own memorable opportunity through financial support for future programs, and for friends of 4-H International to support the 4-H program's continuing efforts in global education and exchange.

New England Planning an IFYE Odyssey for 2001

New England is ready! Are you? You can have an exciting extended adventurous wandering, as Webster describes an odyssey, and make the 2001 National IFYE Conference a part of it! The theme: An IFYE Odyssey!

This 43rd National IFYE Conference will be held June 28 through July 1 in Burlington, Vermont's largest city. It will be headquartered at the Sheraton Hotel just off I-89, just two miles from the airport and five miles from the Amtrak Station.

It all starts with the opening ceremonies on Thursday afternoon and ends at noon on Sunday. In between there will be tours of agricultural and historical sights—including the Shelburne Museum, workshops on various New England crafts and topics, regional and national Association meetings, and an ecumenical service. The international banquet will be part of a cruise on the 107-mile-long beautiful Lake Champlain.

Bring the children. A full program is planned, including visits to Vermont Teddy Bears, Ben & Jerry's Ice Cream, and a 4-H group at Shelburne Farm—and their very own banquet on Saturday evening.

Include Vermont and New England in your plans for 2001! Adult registration is estimated at $250. The hotel room rate will be $105 for up to four adults; children 17 and under stay free if they do not require extra bedding. Watch for more Conference information and the registration forms in the January issue of IFYE News. ★

Dues Increase Effective January 1

There are only two months left in 2000, which means you need to hurry and pay your IFYE Association dues to beat the price increase. Paid memberships now total 1,167 which includes 135 annual and 1,032 life members. The goal is 2,000 memberships in 2000. We have 833 memberships to go!

Help reach the goal! Complete the membership form on page 8 and return it today with your dues. Annual dues for 2000 are $20 per person. Life membership is still $200 for an individual; $250 for a couple. Become a life member today and beat the price increase, which will become effective January 1, 2001.

If you are already a life member, use the same form and make a tax-deductible contribution today to your IFYE Association of the USA! ★

Reflections on Visionary Leadership

*Deryl Waldren
IFYE President*

repeatedly came to mind as we entered the 21st Century.

I've heard many people comment in the past five years that things just aren't like they used to be within the IFYE program. I think it's safe to say that we experienced lots of changes during the 1990s. I believe most of it was positive. What about the future of IFYE? Few of us have the "vision" to project ourselves to 2001, let alone to 2005 or beyond.

What is vision? What makes for good visionary leadership? Some years back, I heard Leah Cox-Hoopfer, then the Deputy Administrator, USDA-ES, define the visionary leader as "someone who images positive, possible futures for the organization and works co-creatively with others to effect the evolving vision."

As we know, most of our political leaders are not very visionary. A former president once said during his term, that he just didn't get the vision thing. Take a moment to name just one visionary leader in 2000.

Dr. Stephen R. Covey in his great book, Seven Habits of Highly Effective People, wrote how visionary leaders are personally effective. While his ideas are not new, I believe it is useful to review them:

1. They have a personal vision and are proactive.
2. They begin with the end in mind.
3. They put first things first (prioritize, manage time).

4. They think win-win.
5. They seek first to understand, then to be understood (they are active, empathetic listeners).
6. They synergize (cooperate creatively).
7. They sharpen the saw regularly (engage in self-renewal).

I can think of many 4-H International alumni and others who epitomize these seven traits of good visionary leadership. It's my hope that in this coming year I will facilitate Covey's process of visionary leadership for the IFYE Association. I'll talk more about visionary leadership in the next issue. ★

*Deryl E. Waldren
President*

I have given great thought to what I want to convey to you this coming year as your president of the IFYE Association of the USA. "Vision" is a word that

"My Life is My Message": A Challenge for Each of Us

"My Life is My Message" is the inscription on Washington's newest statute, a larger-than-life figure of Mahatma Gandhi, whose desire was peace and unity among all people. It shows a lean, bespectacled Gandhi in full stride, pushing forward against a walking stick in a scene recalling his 1930 march to the sea. It was officially dedicated last month in a memorial garden on Massachusetts Avenue near the Embassy of India.

My Life is My Message! Each of our lives is a message in one way or another. The statement itself should cause each of us to pause, think and ponder our own! Mahatma Gandhi continues to be an inspiration to all. And so do the lives of many less well known. Each of us could provide examples.

The photo with this editorial is of someone who has inspired us all with her dedication to 4-H and to 4-H International programs—Kathleen S. Flom. Most know her well or know of her. A former Minnesota State 4-H and National 4-H Council program staff member, she was for years the National 4-H Center's "hostess with the mostest." Kathleen recently moved to a retirement home and looks forward to visits or messages from her many friends. Her new address: Springvale Terrace A-215, 8505 Springvale Road, Silver Spring, MD 20910; telephone 301/588-0009.

All 4-H International alumni and friends have an opportunity to enhance the future of 4-H International exchanges by contributing to Campaign 2000. The future of IFYE depends on it. Consider the challenge of the front-page lead article and contribute generously when your challenge letter arrives. Let's surpass the excellent response to the 50th Anniversary Campaign of a few years ago! This is a vital opportunity to contribute to your life's message.

And at the same time, solidify your relationship to the IFYE Association with regular payment of your annual dues, or with a life membership. Help reach the goal of 2,000 members in 2000. Another important opportunity to contribute to your life's message!

4-H International alumni can and do make a difference. This issue features several. Elaine Gwozdz Rondeau and husband Gordon, who have turned devastation and grief into activism. Jeff and Kathy Durham Miller, whose careers have led to unique experiences. And Ray Borton, who now leads the International Voluntary Services (IVS) Alumni Association. We also recognize those who provide leadership within the IFYE Association, the IFYE Foundation, and the many state associations. We also salute those whose lives make a difference that never become known but to themselves.

The challenge for each of us: let's be prepared and proud to say "My Life is My Message!"

Enjoy this fall issue of IFYE News. As always, we welcome your comments, contributions and suggestions!

Happy Thanksgiving and Happy Holidays! ★

Award, Grant Applications Due March 1

The IFYE Association sponsors Recognition Awards and provides 4-H World Understanding Mini-Grants each year. The due date for nominations and proposals is March 1. Recipients will be announced at the IFYE Conference in Vermont.

The Recognition Awards are for outstanding contributions and leadership related to international development, education, exchanges and understanding. There are four categories of awards:

★ Friend of 4-H International. This provides recognition of individuals, groups, or organizations, which, in a volunteer capacity, have exhibited leadership that has inspired and enhanced international development and understanding.

★ Commendation for Contributions to International Understanding. Recognizes individuals, groups and organizations making significant contributions to international development and understanding.

★ Meritorious Service to 4-H International Programs by Extension personnel. Recognizes Extension Service personnel who have contributed significantly to 4-H International programs.

★ Outstanding Contributions by 4-H International Exchange

Alumni to 4-H International Programs. Recognizes 4-H International exchange alumni for outstanding contributions to the promotion and benefit of 4-H International Programs. This is the only category for which 4-H International exchange alumni are eligible.

Mini-Grants
The 4-H World Understanding Mini-Grants provide an opportunity to develop and demonstrate interest in international understanding amongst youth in local communities. Seed money grants of $50 to $200 are available. Awards will be made in the spring and recognized at the IFYE Conference in Vermont. Grants are made in two categories:

★ To fund projects in the US that deal with intercultural activities and/or projects.
★ To fund projects in countries that have participated or are currently involved in IFYE exchange programs.

Additional information and nomination/application forms for both programs are available from Linda Schultz, Recognition/Mini-Grant coordinator (address on page 8). ★

Region B to Meet in North Carolina

The Region B Winter Conference will be held in North Carolina during President's Weekend, February 17-19. Region B states include AL, AR, FL, GA, KY, LA, MS, NC, OK, SC, TN, TX and VA. Headquarters will be with Don and Suzanne Bunn at the Smoky Mountains Country Club, 309 Mountain View Terrace, in Whittier. The Bunnas will host the Saturday night dinner and activities. Housing is available in nearby Cherokee at the Holiday Inn (828/497-9181) or Hampton Inn (828/497-3115). For more information or to register, write the Bunnas at PO Box 141, Whittier, NC 28789; or email dbunn@dnet.net ★

State Association Happenings

Missouri State Fair Events

Missouri IFYE alumni and 4-H volunteers provided a "Global Village" experience for youth attending the State Fair. Stations were set up with hands-on activities featuring Native American Dream Catchers, coin rubbings, Hispanic paper flowers, and language influences in Missouri. Fairgoers completing all four stations received recognition. The program was designed by Anna Rademacher, MO-Germany 1969. IFYE alumni also sponsor an international foods demonstration contest each year. Special recognition is given for the outstanding demonstrations.

Ohio Honors Bea Cleveland

Ohio held an evening in "Celebration of Youth" September 15, featuring 4-H Faces of Giving—Nationwide and Bea Cleveland.

This statewide event honored Nationwide for its overall support of the 4-H program and Bea Cleveland for her gifts of time, personal support and total belief in 4-H Youth Development. Bea, now retired, spent her career with the Ohio 4-H program and served as the state 4-H International program coordinator during most of those years. She is a lifetime member of the IFYE Association of the USA. ★

IFYE Provides South Pole Care

Remember the story a year ago about Dr. Jerri Nielsen? She was the researcher who treated herself for breast cancer while stationed—and stranded—at the South Pole. There were airlifts of equipment and medicine until weather conditions allowed a rescue team to land and bring her home. And when that was possible, no one was more relieved than Dr. Kathy Durham Miller, OH-Botswana 1987.

An oncologist at Indiana University, Kathy had several months of frustrating and difficult work. She and Dr. Nielsen communicated and monitored Nielsen's treatment and progress through email and video conferencing. It was an emotional experience as the two met on Nielsen's arrival at the hospital in Indiana.

"We were fortunate to have a large team helping us. Never underestimate the power of the human spirit and the ability of a team to solve problems when we stop worrying about who will get the credit or blame," Kathy commented. She continues as Nielsen's doctor today.

A certified member of the American Board of Internal Medicine, Medical Oncology and Hematology, Kathy is married to Dr. Jeffrey P. Miller,

OH-New Zealand 1987. "Kathy was in her first year at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore and I was an extension agent in Georgia—a pretty unlikely pairing," says Jeff. "We met during the Ohio interviews for the 1987 IFYE program. We struck an immediate rapport that day, and the rest, as they say, is history."

While Kathy teaches, does research and provides treatment to patients through clinical trials as a faculty member at the Indiana University School of Medicine, she often reflects on the significant role 4-H has played in her life.

"It never occurred to me not to," she responds when asked why she joined 4-H. Both Kathy and Jeff come from 4-H families. Jeff's dad, Paul H. Miller, was an Ohio IFYE to Iraq in 1956.

Jeff owns an organizational and staff development consulting firm, Innovative Leadership Solutions. He does collaboration training and resource material development. He also works part-time with the Greenleaf Center for Servant-Leadership. Servant-leadership is a simple concept often difficult to see in organizations, he explains. "It's the idea that one's natural inclination is to serve others first, and from that comes an authentic kind of leadership. It's very much about relationships and less about position." He recently became involved with the Points of Light Prudential Youth Leadership Institute. "I'm doing what I most enjoy—traveling and teaching and working with groups," he quickly points out.

Jeff previously worked with National 4-H Council, the Illinois State 4-H Staff, and was the State 4-H Program Leader in North Dakota. With a colleague, he has co-authored a workbook on the collaborative process and they are now planning a second publication.

Both Jeff and Kathy credit their 4-H International

Ohio IFYEs Kathy and Jeff Miller experiences as a major influence on their lives. "I can't adequately describe the feeling of making close friends in a different culture and being more struck by our similarities than our differences. I will never view the world the same," Kathy shares. And Jeff would quickly echo the sentiment. ★

People to People's Roots

As US President, Dwight D. Eisenhower realized that world peace and international collaboration could not be accomplished by governments alone, but by the "understanding and mutual respect between individuals."

He envisioned a world in which people saw first what they had in common, not what made them different. To support this vision, he created People to People, a private, nonprofit organization to facilitate global interaction and understanding.

He called upon all Americans to join forces. In 1956, he specifically asked the 4-H program to play a vital part in this effort. A 4-H People-to-People Committee was formed at that time and provided leadership for years through the National 4-H Foundation (now Council) and the Cooperative Extension Service of the US Department of Agriculture and land-grant universities.

Eisenhower's vision lives today in "People to People" programs of all kinds. 4-H International programs are an important and successful example. No matter what the program, though, the impact is clear: people bridging political and cultural differences and bringing home a new sense of cooperation. Since Eisenhower, seven US presidents have supported the vision of the global People to People International organization by serving as its Honorary Chairman. ★

IFYEs Active as International Volunteers

Raymond E. Borton, MI-Netherlands 1952, was recently elected president of the International Voluntary Services (IVS) Alumni Association. Ray was an IVS volunteer in Vietnam from 1958 to 1960. He retired in 1996 after 20 years with the California Office of Economic Research and the Department of Food and Agriculture.

IVS is a private, nonprofit organization founded in 1953 to provide skilled personnel for two years to work on projects in developing countries. Since that time some 2,000 volunteers have served in 40 countries. Programs are currently active in Bangladesh, Bolivia, Ecuador, Vietnam and Cambodia.

Verle E. Lanier, MT-Japan 1958, and an IVS volunteer in Vietnam 1959-61, is active in the IVS Alumni Association and is especially interested in hearing from IFYE alumni who served with IVS. Verle can be reached by email (essengo@aol.com) or at 301/424-5776. Known IFYE alumni who served with IVS include Richard Koegel, WI-

Germany 1953; Robert Knoernschild, MO-Japan 1959; Harlan C. Grosz, SD-Ireland 1961; and Donald Mitchell, NY-Netherlands 1950.

In addition to their two-year programs, IVS is now considering short-term one-six month assignments. Information on IVS and current volunteer opportunities is available from IVS, 1601 Connecticut Avenue, Suite 402-D, Washington DC 20009; email ivs.inc@erols.com or telephone 202/387-5533. ★

Rondeaus Turn Tragedy into Activism

While attending a 4-H Summer Youth Training Weekend in the mid-1950s, Massachusetts 4-Her Elaine Gwozdz was awed and inspired as Joseph McDaniel reported on his experiences as an IFYE to India (1955). That inspiration was the beginning of a life of community and international service and activism for Elaine.

A dream came true in 1960. Elaine was selected to represent Massachusetts and the United States as an IFYE to Uruguay. She then finished school and married Gordon Rondeau. In 1963 they were off to West Africa as Peace Corps volunteers. Their two daughters—Lisa Bamidele (Yoruba for “follow me home”) and Renee Olubunmi (Yoruba for “God gives me”)—were born during their two-year Peace Corps tour in Nigeria.

They returned to the Washington area, where Gordon was employed with IBM. Elaine worked as a Program Specialist with USDA and USAID, and served as a local volunteer 4-H leader. The family spent several years in Germany in connection with Gordon’s work with IBM, during which time Elaine taught English for the Frankfurter Volkshochschule (adult education program) and volunteered with Kirche im Not, an international organization serving people in need. Their work then took them to the Atlanta area. They have lived in Marietta ever since.

And then six years ago on a rainy Halloween night in 1994...devastation! The Rondeaus learned that their 29-year-old daughter Renee had been brutally murdered in her Chicago apartment. She was picked at random by two drug addicts—a man and a woman (one with 52 previous arrests)—followed home, strangled with her own bra, hung with her belt in her bathroom, and left to die. All for her credit card with which they withdrew $300 from her account three hours later.

Grief. Two years of monthly hearings and updates in Chicago. The trial. And finally in 1997, the verdicts: life without parole for one; 60 years for the other.

Renee was a citizen of the world, says Elaine. She was educated in Germany, France, Italy and the US, and lived and worked in Japan. She spoke three languages fluently. At the time of her death she was employed by an international relations firm in Chicago.

Founding of AAMMEN!

The Rondeaus have turned tragedy into action. First they established the Renee Olubunmi Rondeau Memorial Scholarship Fund at Augusta State University in Georgia, awarded to graduate students in Criminology. Then they founded AAMMEN!—Action Americans, Murder Must End Now!, a nonprofit organization established with the mandate that we owe it to ourselves and to our families to make our world a better and safer place in which to live, to get involved in making this a violent free society, and to heed the words of Mohandas K. Ghandi: it is non-violence or non-existence.

There is so much violence, Elaine points out, because as a nation, “we have let our values slip as we glorify murder, crime and violence—in the media, video games, movies, television and other ways. Technology has both a positive and negative influence today. We can’t look back, but we can move forward, and as we do, we must remember the values that formed our great nation. We have forgotten about love, compassion, sharing and good old-fashioned caring! 4-H has so much to offer. We treasure our family values which stem from our roots in family, church, 4-H, IFYE and community.”

AAMMEN’s areas of influence are to examine and help solve the root causes of crime and violence in America; to examine the flaws in the criminal justice system; to take profit out of violence; and to promote non-violence through anger management programs, violence prevention programs, and related educational workshops.

In visiting with Elaine and Gordon, you sense the devastation and grief, but you also feel the Rondeau spirit. Elaine strongly credits 4-H and her IFYE experience. She comments, “Despite our grief, we have come to understand that the problem is more than ours alone—it is a problem for all America, for all the world! In one recent year, 35 million people were victimized by crime and violence. Thus the question: what can be done? We have learned much from what we have been through and we have made a commitment to use that knowledge to help others avoid a similar fate. It is the truly bittersweet aspect of this experience—bitter at our great loss, sweet in that we might do some good for humankind.”

In addition to their own organization, AAMMEN, Elaine and Gordon also serve on the national advisory council for Fight Crime: Invest in Kids, and are directly affiliated with The Carter Center, The Atlanta Project, Amnesty International, Midnight Basketball League, Inc., Peace Corps, Coalition of Concerned Africans, Campaign for an Effective Crime Policy, and The National Organization for Victim Assistance (NOVA). They also work with the LoveLife Foundation, Save Our Sons and Daughters (SOSAD), and regularly conduct related workshops and other educational programs.

Elaine and Gordon encourage one and all to join in their commitment. For information on AAMMEN, the Renee Olubunmi Rondeau Memorial Scholarship Fund, or to make a tax-deductible contribution to either: PO Box 669054, Marietta, Georgia 30066-0101; telephone 404/699-2636; or email AAMMEN@worldnet.att.net ★

Volunteer Day is December 5

International Volunteer Day (IVD) is December 5. This special day was designated by the UN General Assembly in 1985 for an annual celebration by communities, people and governments of all that is achieved by volunteers around the world.

IVD is for volunteers of every kind, everywhere. Whether you offer your talents to improve your community, donate to charity, provide companionship to the elderly, or volunteer in developing countries, IVD is for you. Make an extra effort on Tuesday, December 5! ★

Watch for IFYE Foundation Campaign Appeal

Financial support can make a difference. It can increase the number of participants. It can make it possible for individuals who could not afford the experience to become involved. It is outreach—a form of stewardship to an important and vital cause.

The IFYE Association has committed the remaining funds from the 50th Anniversary Campaign for the 2001 program. This will provide $40,000 to help reduce the individual participant cost of the program by nearly $1,000 with an additional earmarked for $15,000 for scholarships. The announcement of this support last spring brought forth many welcome acknowledgments from Extension staff, including one from Wendy Stivers, Extension Specialist for Kentucky 4-H

IFYE Foundation's Role

The IFYE Foundation of the USA is now responsible for raising funds for IFYE programs. In addition to the individual support sought through Campaign 2000, they are seeking corporate support. The last corporate donor support to the program was $15,000 in 1997.

Norman Bauer, IFYE Foundation board member and co-chair of the National IFYE Conference this past June in Springfield, Illinois, provided this challenge during the Conference: "We can be proud of our heritage. ## European Meeting

The 42nd European IFYE conference was held July 29 to August 5 at the Mustiala Agricultural College in Tammela in southwestern Finland. Approximately 179 IFYE alumni from 17 nations attended.

Americans attending included three of the current US delegates to Finland—Rachael Bolton, TX; Charlene Kastanek, NE; and Corey McClain, KS. Other attendees from the US were Marion Karr, KS-Venezuela 1962, presently living and working in Germany; Lillian Smith of Corvallis, OR, a guest of Anders Andersson, Sweden-US 1956; and Lew Bordeaux, MI-Japan 1966, a member of the IFYE Association of the USA board of directors, now living and working in Saudi Arabia.

The 2001 European IFYE Conference will be held in Luxembourg; 2002 Conference in Brittany, France; and the 2004 Conference in Scotland. ★
